

Healthcare

Ireland Stapleton attorneys have broad experience with commercial transactions involving many sectors of the healthcare industry; including hospital systems, ancillary care providers, nursing agencies, long term care facilities, physician groups, pharmacy and pharmacy benefit managers, medical device and supply manufacturers, group purchasing organizations, and managed care payers. Some examples of these transactions include vendor and sales contracts, third party payer agreements, services contracts, and group purchasing agreements; as well as organization of professional corporations and limited liability companies, sales or acquisitions of healthcare businesses, and conversion of non-profit healthcare organizations. Our understanding of many facets of the healthcare industry gives us a valuable perspective when counseling our clients in their commercial negotiations.