Ryan joined Ireland Stapleton as an Associate in February 2025. He brings over a decade of diverse business experience and three years as commercial counsel to his practice, focusing on real estate and transactional law. Ryan is skilled in drafting, negotiating, and advising on a broad range of real estate matters, such as leases, purchase and sale agreements, subleases, and easements.

Before joining the firm, Ryan served as Associate Corporate Counsel in the Commercial Transactions group at DISH Network. In this role, he supported the Real Estate and Human Resources departments by successfully handling complex transactions, optimizing departmental processes, and providing strategic counsel to internal stakeholders.

Prior to entering legal practice, Ryan worked in sports television production, spending time with both Major League Baseball and the National Football League. He enjoyed the fast-paced environment of live television and twice received a Sports Emmy award for his work on MLB Network's flagship show MLB Tonight.
